

LOGAN COMMUNITY RESOURCES, INC.,
NOTICE OF PRIVACY PRACTICES

THIS NOTICE DESCRIBES HOW MEDICAL INFORMATION ABOUT YOU MAY BE USED AND DISCLOSED AND HOW YOU CAN GET ACCESS TO THIS INFORMATION

PLEASE REVIEW IT CAREFULLY

Our Policy on Medical Record Privacy

This Notice describes the way we will treat medical records and other health information that we have regarding your care. We are required to keep records for each of our clients in order to keep a record of your care, including your diagnosis, treatment, services you receive, and other information. We are required by law to protect your personal medical record by keeping it private and following certain rules that dictate whether and when we can use or disclose your information.

This Notice informs you of the ways we may use and disclose your health information. It also notifies you of your rights and our obligations in our use and disclosure of your health information.

The law requires us to keep your health information private. We are also required to give you this Notice. You have the right to request additional copies of this Notice at any time by contacting the Privacy Officer identified below.

We reserve the right to change this Notice. We reserve the right to apply those changes to health information we currently have, as well as information we may receive in the future. If we change this Notice, you may request a new copy of the Notice at any time by contacting the Privacy Officer identified below. We will also keep a current copy of the Notice on display on our premises. We are required to follow the terms of the Notice that is currently in effect.

How We May Use and Disclose Your Health Information

We may use and disclose your health information for a number of purposes in connection with your care and in running our operations. The following lists a number of typical uses and disclosures that we may make, with explanations to help you understand your rights. You will not be asked to separately authorize us to do these things.

1. Treatment

We may use your health information to provide you with treatment. For example, we may use your health information to diagnose you, provide you with services, or refer you to another provider. We may disclose your health information to doctors, nurses, technicians, teachers, therapists, other people on your care team or other personnel who are involved in your care. We may also disclose your health information to other people who may be involved in your medical care, such as family members, clergy or others.

2. Payment

We may use and disclose your health information to your health plan, insurance company, HMO, or other third party in order to bill and collect for services provided to you. For example, we may give your health plan information regarding your diagnosis and treatment in order to be paid for the services we provide to you. We may also provide information to determine whether your health plan pays for the medical care you need and whether we need to get authorization from the health plan before treating you.

3. Health Care Operations

We may use and disclose your health information in the process of running our operations. For example, we may use or disclose your information if we conduct quality assessment and improvement activities to ensure that our clients receive top quality care and services. We may also use or disclose your information in training and evaluation of our staff or as part of a medical review, audit, or legal activities.

4. Appointment Reminders

We may use and disclose your health information to contact you as a reminder that you have an appointment.

5. Treatment Alternatives

We may use and disclose your health information to tell you about or recommend treatment alternatives or health-related benefits and services that may be of interest to you.

6. Fundraising

We may use and disclose your health information to contact you to raise funds on our own behalf or on the behalf of a charitable foundation that is related to us.

7. Individuals Involved in Your Care or Payment for Your Care

We may disclose your health information to a family member or friend who is involved in your care, or who helps pay for your care. We may also tell your family or friends about your condition, for example, if you are admitted to the hospital. In addition, we may disclose your health information in the event of a disaster relief effort, so that your family can be notified about your condition, status, and location.

8. Required by Law

We will disclose your health information when we are required to do so by federal, state, or local law.

9. Public Health Risks

We may disclose your health information for public health activities such as reporting disease, injury, or disability; births and deaths; child abuse or neglect; defects, recalls, or problems with drugs, medical devices or other products; to prevent or control disease, injury or disability; exposure to or risk for diseases or conditions. We may also notify authorities if we believe you have been the victim of abuse, neglect, or domestic violence, if we are required or permitted by law to do so or if you agree to the notification.

10. Health Oversight Activities

We may disclose health information to a health oversight agency authorized by law for audits, investigations, inspections, and licensure. Health oversight agencies generally oversee the health care system, government health programs (such as Medicare and Medicaid), and the enforcement of civil rights laws.

11. Judicial and Administrative Proceedings

We may disclose your health information in response to a court order or administrative order. We may also disclose your health information to respond to a subpoena, discovery request, or other request that is not issued by a judge or administrator, but only if efforts have been made to inform you of the request or to get a protective order for the information.

12. Law Enforcement

We may release health information if asked to do so by a law enforcement official under the following circumstances:

- If you have incurred certain injuries or wounds that are legally required to be reported;
- In response to a court order, subpoena, warrant, summons, investigative demand, or similar process;
- To identify or locate a suspect, fugitive, material witness, or missing person;
- About the victim of a crime if under certain limited circumstances;
- About a suspicious death that we believe may be the result of criminal conduct;
- About criminal conduct on our premises; and
- In emergency circumstances to report a crime, its location, or information about the person who may have committed the crime.

13. Coroner, Medical Examiners, and Funeral Directors

We may disclose your health information to a coroner or medical examiner. This may be necessary, for example, to identify or determine the cause of death of a deceased person or as otherwise required by law. We may also disclose health information to funeral directors as necessary to carry out their duties.

14. Organ and Tissue Donation

We may use or disclose your health information to organizations that handle organ procurement to facilitate organ or tissue donation and transplantation.

15. To Avert a Serious Threat to Health or Safety

We may use and disclose your health information when necessary to prevent or lessen a serious threat to the health and safety of you, the public, or another person. Any disclosure would be made to law enforcement or someone else who can help prevent or lessen the threat.

16. Research

We may use and disclose your health information for medical research if an Institutional Review Board or similar body approves the use and disclosure without your authorization, or if the use and disclosure is solely for purposes preparatory to research, such as preparing a research protocol, or if the use and disclosure is solely for research on individuals who are deceased.

17. Specialized Government Functions

We may use or disclose your health information for military command authorities, upon your separation or discharge from military service, to authorized officials. We may also disclose your health information to the appropriate government officials when it is necessary to conduct intelligence or other national security activities authorized by federal law. In addition, we may release your health information if it relates to protection of the President of the United States or foreign heads of state. Finally, we may disclose certain information related to members of the armed services and foreign military services to the appropriate personnel.

18. Inmates

If you are an inmate of a correctional facility or under the custody of a law enforcement official, we may disclose your health information to the correctional institution or law enforcement official in order to provide you with medical services, protect you or others, or to ensure the safety of the correctional facility.

19. Workers' Compensation

We may disclose your health information in relation to workers' compensation or similar program established by law that provides benefits for work-related illness or injuries.

We may also disclose your health information to your employer if the health care services we provide to you are at the request of your employer in order to carry out work place medical surveillance, but only if we notify you first.

Your Right Regarding Your Health Information

1. Your Right to Restrict Our Activities

You have the right to request that we restrict the use or disclosure of your health information for treatment, payment, or healthcare operations (as described above). You may also restrict us from disclosing your health information to family members or friends. For example, you may request that we limit what information we provide to your family members regarding medication you may be taking.

We are not required to agree to your request. If we agree to your restrictions or limitations, we will comply with your wishes unless the information is needed to provide emergency treatment to you. To request restrictions or limitations, you must make a written request to the Privacy Officer identified below. In your written request, you must tell us (1) what information you want to limit; (2) whether you want to limit use of the information and/or disclosure of the information; and (3) to whom the limitations or restrictions will apply (for example, disclosures to your spouse).

2. Your Right to Request Confidential Communications

You have the right to tell us how you would like us to communicate with you. For example, you may ask that we call you at a certain phone number, or you may tell us whether we may leave a message for you.

To request confidential communications, you must make your request in writing to the Privacy Officer listed below. Your request must specify how or where you wish to be contacted. We will follow all reasonable requests for confidential communications.

3. Your Right to Inspect and Copy

You have the right to inspect and copy your health information, including most of your medical and billing records. You do not have the right to review any psychotherapy notes, information created for use in legal actions, or other information covered by certain laws.

If you would like to inspect and/or copy your health information, you must submit your request in writing to the Privacy Officer listed below. If you request a copy of the information, we may charge you a reasonable fee for copying, postage, or other expenses related to your request.

We may deny your request to inspect and/or copy your health information. If we do, you may request that the denial be reviewed. We will choose a licensed health care professional to review your request and the denial. The person conducting the review will not be the person who denied your request. We will comply with the outcome of the review.

4. Your Right to Amend

If you feel that your health information is incorrect or incomplete, you may ask us to amend your records. To request an amendment, you must submit a written request to the Privacy Officer identified below. Your request must state the reason you believe an amendment is necessary.

We may deny your request for an amendment if it is not in writing or does not include a reason to support the request. In addition, we may deny your request if: (a) we did not create the information (unless the entity that created the information is no longer available); (b) the information is not in our possession or control; (c) you would not be permitted to inspect or copy the information; or (d) the information is accurate and complete.

5. Your Right to an Accounting of Disclosures

You have the right to request an “accounting of disclosures.” This is a list of certain disclosures of your health information that we have made.

To request this list of disclosures, you must submit a written request to the Privacy Officer identified below. Your request must state a time period for which the accounting is requested. The time period may not be longer than six years and may not include dates before April 23, 2002. You will receive one list per year without charge. We may charge you for the costs of providing additional lists within one year after your first request. We will notify you of the cost involved and you may choose to withdraw or modify your request if you do not wish to pay the cost.

6. Your Right to Receive a Paper Copy of This Notice

If you are receiving this notice electronically, you have the right to request a paper copy of this notice by making a request to the Privacy Officer identified below.

Changes to This Notice

We reserve the right to change this notice and to apply the revisions or changes notice to health information we already have about you, in addition to information we create or receive in the future.

Complaints

If you believe your privacy rights have been violated, you may file a complaint with the Privacy Officer identified below, or you may contact Health Care Compliance Group, LLC. You may also file a complaint with the United States Secretary of the Department of Health and Human Services. To file a complaint with us, you may contact the Privacy Officer at the phone number or address listed below to file a written complaint. We encourage your feedback regarding our privacy policies, and we will not retaliate against you in any way if you file a complaint.

Other Uses of Your Health Information

This notice only describes the ways we may use and disclose your health information without obtaining further permission from you. There may be other reasons we may request to use or disclose your health information. If we need to do so, we are required to get your written authorization. If you grant us this further authorization, you may revoke it at any time by giving us written notice that you no longer authorize us to use or disclose your health information for those purposes. Other uses and disclosures of health information not covered by this notice or the laws that apply to us will be made only with your written permission. If you provide us permission to use or disclose your health information, you may revoke that permission, in writing, at any time. If you revoke your permission, we will no longer use or disclose your health information for the reasons covered by your written authorization. You understand that we are unable to take back any disclosures we have already made with your permission, and that we are required to retain our records of the care that we provided to you.
